New faces and new positions

Right now, many things are happening at Steeltech. Among other things, we can now introduce a new Purchasing Manager and a new Service Manager plus a number of employees who have been assigned slightly different positions.

We will start with our new Purchasing Manager, Sara Lindgren. She began her employment with us in the middle of December last year. Sara's most recent employment was at Beijer in Alingsås where she sold kitchens and bathrooms for three years. Before that, she worked at Ascom in Herrljunga and prior to that at Atlet i Mölnlycke – in both places as purchasing agent.

Why Steeltech?

"I find it a fairly large company with a good understanding of the market, short decision-making paths and significant potential on the purchasing side in terms of strategic purchasing," says Sara.

What did you know about Steeltech before you started?

"Not much really, except that the company deals with industrial kitchens."

News from STEELTECH

Nr 1, april 2018

And how does it feel after your first 100 days in this position?

"Just great. Steeltech is a healthy company with a really nice atmosphere. Then I appreciate the fact that it is an expansive company that dares to commit itself – not least with our imminent move in mind. This will be both fun and challenging."

Sara is 42 years old and lives with her husband and three children (12, 9 and 5 years) in Alingsås. She likes to work out at the gym and often spends her time off in her cottage in Anten.

We would also like to welcome Christer Kajsjö – our new Service Manager who replaced Johan Wahlström on 1 February. Christer is 45 years old and lives in Floda with his wife and two children (14 and 12 years old). Undoubtedly, he has a varied professional background to look back on.

Tell us a little more about yourself.

"Initially I had an education in operation and maintenance. Among others I worked at a high-voltage power plant and in the automotive industry. Then I became an independent business owner and worked as a project controller at Volvo as well as a business developer."

And now, you are at Steeltech.

"Yes indeed. Via a friend's acquaintance I learned that the company was looking for a new service manager, and I believe that my broad background and vast experience appealed to those in charge of making the appointment."

What are your first impressions of Steeltech and how do you like it here?

"I enjoy everything here. It's an exciting company with an interesting future and many talented employees who help me in my new role at a time when I am still learning. I must say that there is a lot of inspiration and variation in the company."

In his free time, Christer has five major interests – cooking, running, mushroom picking, playing golf and wood working.

To end, we would also like to mention four other employees at Steeltech who have been assigned new important positions/tasks. For some time, Johan Löfgren has acted as Quality Manager, and he has already come a long way with his task of improving and ensuring both internal and external quality. Claes-Erik Ekström has become Production Manager. He has several decades of experience and by applying continuous monitoring methods, he ensures that the right items are produced correctly. Magnus Westin is now Supervisor in the assembly division, where he acts as a quick and direct link between assembly, planning and sales. Robert Magnusson is our new service team leader. His challenge is to manage short-term planning for his colleagues, while also being active in the field to help our customers.
